MISSISSIPPI STATE UNIVERSITY™ EXTENSION

4-H is the nonformal educational program of the Mississippi State University Extension Service. 4-H is dedicated to the development of youth ages 5 to 18, through learn-by-doing projects and activities.

4-H focuses on helping adults help youth. You can find YOUR PLACE in the 4-H program.

4-H Club Leader

Helps youth plan and carry out their programs.

Involve club members in these ways:

- Setting individual goals.
- Planning activities to achieve goals.
- Assessing progress toward goals.

Project Leader

Works with club members informally in a project.

Works with 4-H club leader.

Helps conduct a workshop in a project area.

team up with youth through 4-H!

Activity Leader

Helps 4-H members plan and carry out an activity they have planned within their club program.

Works with the 4-H club leader.

Qualifications

Have an interest in young people and a desire to influence their growth as individuals — in skills, character, leadership, and citizenship.

Satisfaction

A 4-H volunteer's satisfaction comes from many sources, including:

- Working with and assisting young people.
- Learning while teaching.
- Influencing the development of young people.
- Contributing to member accomplishment.
- Contributing toward career decisions.
- Knowing you have a stake in tomorrow.

Or as 4-H volunteers say, "...a warm glow of personal satisfaction inside, knowing we've helped some kids learn, or have fun, or find clues to their life's work."

To Help You

Assistance is available through these areas:

- Professional advice, guidance, and assistance from Extension agents.
- Training meetings on how to work with youth in project areas.
- Project literature for members and volunteers.
- Community resources.
- Parents, other volunteers, and 4-H members.

Share Your Talents

4-H needs you, your knowledge, skills, and interest because young people need you!

You can make a difference in the lives of young people.
